Denies Statement Made In Connection With Ruhr Occupation.

NOT COMPLIMENTARY Results of Trip to America Not of Import At This Time

Havre, Dec. 20.—The Tiger returned to France today in a sullen mood. Newspaper men, crowding about former Premier Georges Clemenceau, when he walked down the gang plank from the steamer Paris here today, were met with almost snarling statements.

"The interview was false," he snapped when asked about the famous interview that appeared in the Petit Parisien, in which he was quoted as favoring President Harding's intervention in the reparations program and also quoted him as declaring France should immediately ratify the Washington treaty.

"Does that mean you are opposed to President Harding's intervention?" he was asked.

"The interview was false. I have nothing to say," the ex-premier snapped as he walked away.

"About a hundred of his countrymen turned out to greet the Tiger. They raised a cheer as the squat figure came into sight walking down the gang plank. He acknowledged the cheers with a wave of his hand. Clemenceau's son and daughter, Andre Tardieu, long one of the Tiger's strongest supporters, Georges Mandel, former Chamber of Deputies reporter on the Washington Naval Treaty and several deputies who have supported Clemenceau were out to meet the Paris.

Mandel greeted the Tiger very coldly. Tardieu immediately asked him what the Ruhr statement meant. Before the former premier could answer, the two—Mandel and Tardieu—hustled Clemenceau away for a private conference. It was known that they were protesting violently against the views expressed by the Tiger opposing French occupation of the Ruhr.

After a quarter of an hour Clemenceau appeared and started for his motor that was to take him to Paris. It was then that he hurled his denial of the interview to the assembled newspapermen.

As he got into his automobile he again uttered a denial. "It was pure imagination, purely fantastic. I said only that fear of another world war will come if the Ruhr is occupied."

Tardieu, standing by, was plainly pleased by the Tiger's denial. He rubbed his hands with satisfaction and made sure that all of the newspapermen present got the denial.

Mandel, speaking to the newspapermen, declared that he is satisfied that the former premier will reverse his attitude and will come out against the Washington treaty.

"I had a bad voyage," he said. "The crossing was mighty rough and I was unable to sleep nights. Several were injured by the pitching of the ship. I hope for success of my trip. America will show whether I succeeded."

SEES URGENT NEED FOR STATE BUILDING

Columbus, Dec. 20.—Governor Davis announced that he will include in his final message to the general assembly a recommendation that a new state office building be built.

The recommendation will probably carry with it the suggestion that the project be financed through funds to be borrowed from the state workmen's compensation fund, which now exceeds $40,000,000.

The governor says he is convinced that such a new building is urgently needed by the state. Existing quarters are badly crowded and in many instances badly arranged, while they are so scattered that extreme difficulty is experienced in the transaction of state affairs through the different departments.

The plan has been under consideration for some time and State Architect Robert S. Harsh has been studying plans and making preliminary drawings at the instance of the chief executive.

INVESTIGATION INTO AMERICAN POLICIES URGED

Ladd Would Probe U. S. Activities In Nicaragua

Washington, Dec. 20.—A probe into American activities in Nicaragua is proposed in a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Ladd.

Investigation by the senate foreign relations committee is proposed to ascertain "the true state of affairs" in Nicaragua, the facts concerning American occupation of that republic in 1910; why American forces still are quartered there, and "the connection between certain New York commercial houses and the Chamorro Clan government of Nicaragua."

As set forth at length, various criticisms are made of our policy with respect to Nicaragua, declaring that "no state of war exists between the United States and Nicaragua which would justify the permanent quartering of our military forces upon a territory of a friendly, neighboring nation;" that "the executive department has not constitutional powers to maintain such invasion without the consent of congress," and that "such permanent occupation conflicts with the traditional policy of the United States and is inimical to the continuance of friendly and harmonious relations with Central America republics."

Reference also was made in the measure to resolutions adopted at a meeting in Managua, which it was said, accused Dr. Maximo H. Zepeda, a Nicaraguan delegate to the Central American conference now in session in Washington, of being "a traitor to his country" and "a warrior of Wall Street bankers against the legitimate interests of his country."

Another charge set forth in the resolution was that "while the United States naval officers virtually dictated the policies of its nominal president, the United States government consummated an important treaty with Nicaragua." An attempt to enforce the terms of this treaty, the resolution added, "has created disputes between the United States government and certain other Central American nations involving territorial grants for a naval base and commercial concessions."

MYSTERIOUS AGAIN

London, Dec. 20.—Miss Mathilde McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick, is "somewhere in England," where her friends claim they do not know. In fact they claim to have no knowledge of her being in England. The young heiress, who is engaged to marry Max Oser, the former Swiss riding master, arrived in London last night with a girl friend.

"I'm sorry, I've nothing to say and cannot discuss my plans," she said.

GERMANY'S HOPE FOR FINANCIAL AID SHATTERED

Gloom Again Grips Country as U. S. Looked For Help Refused

MARK AGAIN DROPS

Reckless Optimism Gives Way to New Pessimism in the Nation.

Dublin, Dec. 20.—Reckless optimism which has run rampant during the past week is fast giving way to a new pessimism with the realization now that Uncle Sam is not going to play Santa Claus for Germany after all.

All hands are now engaged in the drab task of sobering up as the result of Morgan's statement upsetting hopes of an immediate loan in America.

If the statement had come a week sooner it would have prevented the almost ludicrous rise of the mark which is now being followed by the steady re-ascension of the dollar.

The disastrous result of the mad jubilee of optimism is that the people have been led to expect dropping prices, a hope that the new climb of the dollar makes impossible. Instead, prices again are sky rocketing on the eve of Yuletide and the holiday promises to find the German people in a bitterly disappointed mood.

Christmas will be even blacker than last year. Antagonism toward foreigners is growing so intense that the government has deemed it necessary to issue a warning that displays of excessive feeling against them will only result in new burdens for the German people.

It is now realized on all sides that France, not America, holds the key to the situation. Those who have watched closely, the trend of developments in the last year can not but feel that the solution of Germany's difficulties is still far away.

Germans are fond of the argument that if Germany had owed the United States a couple of billions in 1914, the United States would not have entered the war. Cool headed German financiers now say that France won't let the United States finance German restoration if she can help it because an American loan now would mean a German economic hegemony under American financial protection which would block the imperialistic aims of France.

Religious sources reveal that the chief motive power behind all recent efforts to make Washington see the German problem as one of which the whole world is concerned is Ambassador Houghton, who has been warning the state department ever since his arrival that indescribable chaos is in the offing if not soon put back on her feet.

STEEL MERGER IS ALMOST ASSURED

Youngstown, O., Dec. 20.—Purchase of the Brier Hill Steel company of Youngstown by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, another local concern, is regarded in steel circles as almost assured.

After a meeting of the directors of the Sheet and Tube company, President James A. Campbell announced that "it is now possible that the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company will acquire the Brier Hill Steel company." Mr. Campbell said that while details of the proposed merger remain to be worked out, the plan will be submitted to stockholders of both companies soon.

The announcement followed months of negotiations, which during last October were reported to have broken down completely. The merger would make the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company the third largest steel company in the United States, and the largest of the independent concerns, with a capacity of 7 1/2 per cent of the country's total production. According to officials, the consolidation would mean a saving of many thousands of dollars annually in overhead expenses.

WALLACE SIGHS IMPROVEMENT IN FARM SITUATION

Predicts Better Times for Farmers During Next Year.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Marked improvement in agricultural conditions of the country during 1923 was predicted by Secretary of Agriculture Henry G. Wallace in an address here.

While agricultural prices remain lower relatively than the prices of other things, the farmers of the nation will get between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 more for their crops this year than last, Wallace said.

"Perhaps the chief reason for the low prices the farmers have been receiving is that they have been overproducing," he declared.

Secretary Wallace said the large advance in cotton prices has put the south in better shape than for many years. The advance in prices of coarse grains and the continuing profitable prices of live stock have led to marked improvement in conditions in the great corn belt surplus producing country, he stated.

"There has been less improvement in the wheat growing regions of the northwest and the southwest. High freight rates take too much out of the price of wheat. Prospects of better foreign demand give hope to the wheat farmer."

"In dairy sections of the west the farmers are coming through very well. From the corn belt eastward farmers have not suffered so severely as in the west."

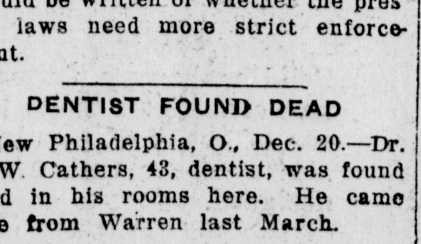

"The experience of the last three years has brought home to the nation its dependence upon agriculture. We realize as never before that national prosperity is dependent upon agricultural prosperity. About a third of our entire population depends upon farming for a living. When the buying power of that third is restricted for any reason, all business and all industry suffer."

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS BEING CONSIDERED

Columbus, Dec. 20.—Conference of city solicitors and law directors of Ohio, called by Attorney General John G. Price to study the traffic situation in the state and propose remedies, opened today in the senate chamber. Price, who presided at the meeting, said that any suggestions from the public would be welcomed. Most of the larger cities of the state are represented. The first question to be decided, it was pointed out, will be whether new and more stringent laws should be written or whether the present laws need more strict enforcement.

CHARGE FALLS FLAT

Books of State Department Are Thrown Open to Prove Case

Washington, Dec. 20.—Renewed charges that secret agents were assigned to "shadow" members of congress who indulged in criticism of Attorney General Daugherty were made today before the house judiciary committee by Rep. Roy Woodruff, Republican of Michigan, who appeared as probably the last witness in the impeachment proceedings.

There was every indication when the hearing got under way that the committee would close up its business today and exonerate the attorney general.

Washington, Dec. 20.—The end of the Daugherty impeachment hearings may come today to complete vindication of the attorney general by the House judiciary committee.

Representative Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, one of the chief critics of the attorney general will submit his evidence concerning reprehensible delay on the part of the Daugherty in prosecuting war fraud and profiteering cases. The Michigan Congressman told the committee he was no "prosecutor" and if supplementary inquiry should develop Daugherty less at fault than reported he would tell the committee to frankly withdraw his charge.

Department of justice officials threw open in the books to Dr. Woodruff for an examination, confident they would exonerate Attorney General Daugherty from blame. The judiciary committee awaited the outcome in the firm belief their vexatious labors were at an end. If Woodruff is not satisfied with the results of his inquiry the committee will go ahead with the examination of witnesses whom Woodruff may ask to have called.

A report from the committee to the House on the impeachment inquiry is not to be presented until after the Christmas holidays, it was said by members. Time is desired in which to determine the form and character of the report both as to the attorney general and recording the conduct of Representative Keller, Minnesota, Republican, who brought the impeachment. Keller withdrew from the hearings, refusing to supply evidence and explosively condemned the committee for "white washing" the attorney general.

NO DECISION ON RE-TRIAL FOR WEEK SAYS PROSECUTOR

A decision of the question regarding the re-trial of Sheriff Lincoln Funderburgh and William Burns in connection with the death of Volney Nichols September 5, may not be expected until after the holidays.

This is the statement of Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williams Wednesday. Public sentiment is such that it is thought that the case will be again set down for trial but the earliest date is understood to be sometime after the first week in January.

The case was the outgrowth of the slaying of Volney Nichols and the injury of three others when the Sheriff's posse fired on a party of boys on the Wilmington pike, and has been attended with intense interest ever since that time. All events in connection with the progress of the case from the shooting until the jury verdict, have been watched with more than the usual public interest. This interest was at fever height during the few days following the shooting, but settled down to a sullen determination not to be satisfied until every effort has been exhausted to see that justice is done.

USE OF DRUGS IN EAST IS CLAIM

Washington, Dec. 20.—Capital society was startled today by charges that drug addiction is on the increase in Washington and that "decks" of morphine, cocaine and heroin, may be purchased from itinerant vendors in the vicinity of the White House and the capitol.

The charges were made by Dr. D. G. Dickerson, of the U. S. public health service in addressing the Washington Board of Trade.

"It is known," said Dr. Dickerson, "that there are a large number of persons in higher society life in Washington, who are turning from liquor to drugs."

"Where formerly society gathered around tea cups or had their whiskey and soda, they now sniff cocaine from expensive jeweled boxes.

"There are approximately 1,000 drug addicts in Washington and the number is rapidly increasing. Cocaine, morphine, heroin are easily obtained. Within the shadow of the capitol and not more than 500 yards from the White House dope dispensers sell their decks and phials."

Dr. Dickerson's views were controverted to large extent by Colonel L. G. Nutt, the government's chief narcotic officer, who asserted that addiction to drugs is rapidly decreasing.

"Reports from my agents show use of narcotics is diminishing all over the country," said Col. Nutt. "The traffic is under better control now than at any time."

"The common belief that people are turning to drugs because of inability to get liquor is wholly unfounded. Prohibition has not resulted in increased use of drugs."

"A man who uses morphine or cocaine could get no satisfaction out of whiskey. Similarly a man who uses whiskey could get no satisfaction out of morphine."

APPLE CROP GOING TO WASTE IN WEST

Washington, Dec. 20.—One third of the apple crop of the state of Washington is going to ruin because of lack of transportation and high freight rates, John Quincy Adams, president of the Washington state farmers' union declared today.

Adams estimated the monetary loss to Washington growers at $1,500,000 out of a total crop valuation of $6,000,000.

"Apples are being left on trees or dumped in the rivers or are frozen while in flimsy warehouses while waiting cars, which never come," Adams said. "Farmers throughout the apple districts are using private cellars and all available storage space to hold the apples and prevent their freezing, until cars arrive."

TURKEY NOT TO YIELD ON ISSUE OF THE STRAITS

Members of Delegations to Conference Hold Consultation

ULTIMATUM RECEIVED

Situation at Lausanne Extremely Delicate It Is Said

Lausanne, Dec. 20.—Lord Curzon announced today that the Near East conference will continue, the Turks having adopted a conciliatory attitude towards the allied plan for settlement of the straits question.

Earlier it had been reported the Turks would not yield to the Allies and that the conference was liable to break up.

Lausanne, Dec. 20.—The members of the Turkish delegation held a long conference today regarding the ultimatum of the Allies that the allied plan for the administration of the straits must be accepted or rejected without further parleying. Attaches of the Turkish delegation declared the members have made up their minds not to yield. It is believed the Turks will make a formal reply to the allies to that effect later in the day.

It was learned today that the Turks had made up their minds yesterday to answer Lord Curzon's ultimatum immediately with a curt refusal but were persuaded by American Ambassador Child to give the matter further consideration. Child sought Ismet Pasha and spent a long time with him trying to win him over to accepting the allied compromise.

The American envoy was plainly worried over the turn affairs had taken. He refused to discuss his conference with the Turkish leader. It was understood that he had told Ismet Pasha that if the Turks rejected the allied proposal and with the Russians left the conference the action could mean only war.

London, Dec. 20.—The situation at Lausanne is extremely delicate because of the attitude of the Turks and the Russians, it was announced at the foreign office today. Belief was expressed however, that a break up would be averted.

NAVAL JUNKING IS HELD UP BY AMERICA

Washington, Dec. 20.—Responding to a house resolution, Secretary Denby transmitted to congress the information in the hands of the navy department on the status of warships scrapped under the terms of the Washington arms conference naval treaty, or otherwise disposed of by the signatories since the adjournment of the conference.

The report showed that neither the United States nor Japan plans to complete the scrapping of any existing capital ships, at least pending promulgation of the treaty, although both nations have stopped work on large building programs of capital ships.

The United States, according to the report, in addition to suspending work on vessels under construction under the treaty, has decommissioned all completed ships affected except the battleship Connecticut, which soon will be placed out of commission, and has sold the Maine and the Missouri, which are actually being broken up.

Columbus, Dec. 20.—Governor-elect Donahey today announced his desire of appointing Thomas J. Duffy, 45, formerly of East Liverpool as state director of industrial relations. The position pays $6,500 a year.

MILLION DOLLAR THEFT CHARGED TO EMPLOYEES

Twenty Two Civilian Workers Arrested at Brooklyn Navy Yard for Alleged Theft of Government Supplies On Wednesday.

New York, Dec. 20.—Charged with stealing government supplies, 22 civilian employees at the Brooklyn naval base were arrested today by Department of Justice agents. Indictments found by the federal grand jury in Brooklyn recently alleged that more than $1,000,000 worth of goods had been stolen from the base since the war.

The accused men were taken in army trucks to the federal building in Brooklyn, where they are to be arraigned before Judge Garvin.

The goods stolen, according to the authorities consisted largely of clothing, oil and various other materials used at the base. Officials said other indictments and arrests will follow.

The men taken into custody include clerks, laborers, chauffeurs, watchmen and elevator operators. The thefts, it is alleged, had been going on for three years. Various governmental agencies were working on the case for the past two months.

INVESTIGATION INTO AMERICAN POLICIES URGED

Ladd Would Probe U. S. Activities In Nicaragua

Washington, Dec. 20.—A probe into American activities in Nicaragua is proposed in a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Ladd.

Investigation by the senate foreign relations committee is proposed to ascertain "the true state of affairs" in Nicaragua, the facts concerning American occupation of that republic in 1910; why American forces still are quartered there, and "the connection between certain New York commercial houses and the Chamorro clan government of Nicaragua."

As set forth at length, various criticisms are made of our policy with respect to Nicaragua, declaring that "no state of war exists between the United States and Nicaragua which would justify the permanent quartering of our military forces upon a territory of a friendly, neighborly nation;" that "the executive department has not constitutional powers to maintain such invasion without the consent of congress;" and that "such permanent occupation conflicts with the traditional policy of the United States and is inimical to the continuance of friendly and harmonious relations with Central America republics."

Reference also was made in the measure to resolutions adopted at a meeting in Managua, which it was said, accused Dr. Maximo H. There was every indication when the hearing got under way that the committee would close up its business today and exonerate the attorney general.

Washington, Dec. 20.—The end of the Daugherty impeachment hearings may come today to complete vindication of the attorney general by the house judiciary committee.

Representative Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, one of the chief critics of the attorney general will submit his evidence concerning reprehensible delay on the part of the Daugherty in prosecuting war fraud and profiteering cases. The Michigan Congressman told the committee he was no "prosecutor" and if supplementary inquiry should develop Daugherty less at fault than reported he would tell the committee to frankly withdraw his charge.

Department of justice officials threw open in the books to do Woodruff for an examination, confident they would exonerate Attorney General Daugherty from blame. The judiciary committee awaited the outcome in the firm belief their vexatious labors were at an end. If Woodruff is not satisfied with the results of his inquiry the committee will go ahead with the examination of witnesses whom Woodruff may ask to have called.

A report from the committee to the House on the impeachment inquiry is not to be presented until after the Christmas holidays, it was said by members. Time is desired in which to determine the form and character of the report both as to the attorney general and recording the conduct of Representative Keller, Minnesota, Republican, who brought the impeachment. Keller withdrew from the hearings, refusing to supply evidence and explosively condemned the committee for "white washing" the attorney general.

NO DECISION ON RE-TRIAL FOR WEEK SAYS PROSECUTOR

A decision of the question regarding the re-trial of Sheriff Lincoln Funderburgh and William Burns in connection with the death of Volney Nichols September 5, may not be expected until after the holidays.

This is the statement of Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williams Wednesday. Public sentiment is such that it is thought that the case will be again set down for trial but the earliest date is understood to be sometime after the first week in January.

The case was the outgrowth of the slaying of Volney Nichols and the injury of three others when the Sheriff's posse fired on a party of boys on the Wilmington pike, and has been attended with intense interest ever since that time. All events in connection with the progress of the case from the shooting until the jury verdict, have been watched with more than the usual public interest. This interest was following the shooting, but settled down to a sullen determination not to be satisfied until every effort has been exhausted to see that justice is done.

USE OF DRUGS INCREASING IN EAST IS CLAIM

Washington, Dec. 20.—Capital society was startled today by charges that drug addiction is on the increase in Washington and that "decks" of morphine, cocaine and heroin, may be purchased from itinerant vendors in the vicinity of the White House and the capitol.

The charges were made by Dr. D. G. Dickerson, of the U. S. public health service in addressing the Washington Board of Trade. "It is known," said Dr. Dickerson, "that there are a large number of persons in higher society life in Washington, who are turning from liquor to drugs."

"Where formerly society gathered around tea cups or had their whiskey and soda, they now sniff cocaine from expensive jeweled boxes."

There are approximately 1,000 drug addicts in Washington and the number is rapidly increasing. Cocaine, morphine, heroin are easily obtained. Within the shadow of the capitol and not more than 500 yards from the White House dope dispensers sell their decks and phials."

Dr. Dickerson's views were controverted to large extent by Colonel L. G. Nutt, the government's chief narcotic officer, who asserted that addiction to drugs is rapidly decreasing.

"Reports from my agents show use of narcotics is diminishing all over the country," said Col. Nutt. "The traffic is under better control now than at any time."

"The common belief that people are turning to drugs because of inability to get liquor is wholly unfounded. Prohibition has not resulted in increased use of drugs."

"A man who uses morphine or cocaine could get no satisfaction out of whiskey. Similarly a man who uses whiskey could get no satisfaction out of morphine."

APPLE CROP GOING TO WASTE IN WEST

Washington, Dec. 20.—One third of the apple crop of the state of Washington is going to ruin because of lack of transportation and high freight rates, John Quincy Adams, president of the Washington state farmers' union declared today.

Adams estimated the monetary loss to Washington growers at $1,500,000 out of a total crop valuation of $6,000,000.

"Apples are being left on trees or dumped in the rivers or are frozen while in flimsy warehouses while waiting cars which never come," Adams said. "Farmers throughout the apple districts are using private cellars and all available storage space to hold the apples and prevent their freezing, until cars arrive."

TURKEY NOT TO YIELD ON ISSUE OF THE STRAITS

Members of Delegations to Conference Hold Consultation

ULTIMATUM RECEIVED

Situation at Lausanne Extremely Delicate It Is Said

Lausanne, Dec. 20.—Lord Curzon announced today that the Near East conference will continue, the Turks having adopted a conciliatory attitude towards the allied plan for settlement of the straits question.

Earlier it had been reported the Turks would not yield to the Allies and that the conference was liable to break up.

Lausanne, Dec. 20.—The members of the Turkish delegation held a long conference today regarding the ultimatum of the Allies that the allied plan for the administration of the straits must be accepted or rejected without further parleying. Attaches of the Turkish delegation declared the members have made up their minds not to yield. It is believed the Turks will make a formal reply to the allies to that effect later in the day.

It was learned today that the Turks had made up their minds yesterday to answer Lord Curzon's ultimatum immediately with a curt refusal but were persuaded by American Ambassador Child to give the matter further consideration. Child sought Ismet Pasha and spent a long time with him trying to win him over to accepting the allied compromise.

The American envoy was plainly worried over the turn affairs had taken. He refused to discuss his conference with the Turkish leader. It was understood that he had told Ismet Pasha that if the Turks rejected the allied proposal and with the Russians left the conference the action could be only war.

London, Dec. 20.—The situation at Lausanne is extremely delicate because of the attitude of the Turks and the Russians, it was announced at the foreign office today. Belief was expressed however, that a break up would be averted.

NAVAL JUNKING IS HELD UP BY AMERICA

Washington, Dec. 20.—Responding to a house resolution, Secretary Denby transmitted to congress the information in the hands of the navy department on the status of warships scrapped under the terms of the Washington arms conference naval treaty, or otherwise disposed of by the signatories since the adjournment of the conference.

The report showed that neither the United States nor Japan plans to complete the scrapping of any existing capital ships, at least pending promulgation of the treaty, although both nations have stopped work on large building programs of capital ships.

The United States, according to the report, in addition to suspending work on vessels under construction under the treaty, has decommissioned all completed ships affected except the battleship Connecticut, which soon will be placed out of commission, and has sold the Maine and the Missouri, which are actually being broken up.

ACCEPT 9 O'CLOCK CURFEW LAW FOR SCHOOL PUPILS

With fifty members enrolled, the Parent-Teacher Association of Central High School has joined the State Federation.

As a result of the talk given at the Monday meeting of the organization by Mrs. Robert Terrell, on the adoption of a curfew law in the city of Xenia as sponsored by the W. C. T. U., the members of the High School P. T. A. accepted the plan with one change. The law as explained in Mrs. Terrell's talk gave the hour when all the children of the city should be off the streets at 7:30 o'clock, the school organization, voting in favor of nine o'clock. The matter will be presented by the High School P. T. A. to all the other school organizations of the city, for their co-operation.

The matter of having the hours of the various parties given by High School pupils, shortened, was brought up and discussed at length at the meeting, and it was decided that the various hostesses of the affairs have the hours for each party understood, and to arrange their plans to conform with closing each party at ten o'clock.

"The health of the High School student must be considered," said a member of the High School P. T. A. Wednesday, "and late hours will have to go."

Definite plans of hiring an expert librarian to re-index the High School library were discussed at the meeting the arrangement being passed upon. The organization has the assistance of Harper C. Pender, principal of the High School, who suggested at the meeting that the organization ask each home represented in the school to send twenty-five cents to meet the expense of the work of the librarian.

The organization has decided to place the Saturday Evening Post and the Popular Mechanics magazine and a daily paper in the school library for the use of the students.

CHRISTMAS WILL BE INFORMAL AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Dec. 20.—While Mrs. Harding continues to show rapid recovery from her recent serious illness, she has not yet sufficiently regained her strength to participate actively in any elaborate Christmas observance.

For this reason Christmas at the White House this year it was definitely learned today will be strictly informal. The president and Mrs. Harding planning to spend the day simply and quietly with a few personal friends. This is in striking contrast to former seasons when the mansion has been the scene of gayest festivities.

Except for Christmas Day the president plans to devote much of the holiday week at his desk in the private study in the White House clearing up work which has piled up on him because of the legislative situation in Congress and the recent turn of European developments.

Strictest secrecy has been thrown around the White House concerning the nature of the presents which the president and Mrs. Harding will exchange. Neither will disclose what they have purchased because each wants to surprise the other.

Mrs. Harding's illness has prevented a Christmas shopping tour. In the past, just before Christmas she always enjoyed walking leisurely along Washington streets to look at the holiday displays in the windows. She always made her own purchases.

YOUTHS INDICTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE IN CLINTON COUNTY

Clarence Schauers, Samuel Jamison and Cliff Brewer, all of Yellow Springs, were indicted by the Clinton County Grand Jury which made its report on a special session Tuesday afternoon late.

The three Yellow Springs youths are alleged to have held-up and robbed John Ellis, postmaster of the village of Port William last Saturday night, escaping with $12 or $15 in small change. They were arrested Sunday and confessed, later pleading guilty before Squire Greene in Wilmington, who bound them over to the Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury was sitting in special session on the cases of Noah Van Meter and Joseph E. Turney, no homes, who are said to have robbed the Champion Clothing Store in Wilmington a week ago of $1,500 worth of merchandise, and escaped in a Ford coupe. They were arrested in Springfield.

The Grand Jury disposed of all the robber cases by indicting Van Meter and Turney for the Champion robbery and the three Greene County youths for the hold-up. Schauers, Jamison and Brewer are expected to plead guilty to the indictments as soon as they are arraigned in Clinton County Common Pleas Court.

HEALTH CONDITION IN GREENE COUNTY REPORTED AS GOOD

There is practically no communicable disease in Xenia or Greene County now according to Dr. R. H. Grube, joint Health Commissioner.

Dr. Grube is convinced that the small pox epidemic which raged on a small scale in Bath Township this fall, has been finally stamped out. With the exception of a case reported Wednesday morning of which the attending physician is suspicious, there are no cases of the disease in that section now, it is said.

There were about 15 cases in all in that section during the fall, touching about six families. Prompt co-operation of the school authorities in the district, was a big help in stamping out the disease, according to the Health Commissioner. The board of education passed an immediate resolution requiring all school children to be vaccinated, and the early and prompt order, being blanket in effect, enabled Dr. Grube to order vaccination whenever it appeared necessary.

Adults also generally adopted the vaccine as a means of preventing the spread of the disease, it is said, and a vaccination order was put in effect at Wilbur Wright Aviation Field by the government, regarding all service men and employees to comply.

There is not a case under quarantine either in Xenia or Greene County now, according to Dr. Grube.

ACCEPT 9 O'CLOCK CURFEW LAW FOR SCHOOL PUPILS

With fifty members enrolled, the Parent-Teacher Association of Central High School has joined the State Federation.

As a result of the talk given at the Monday meeting of the organization by Mrs. Robert Terrell, on the adoption of a curfew law in the city of Xenia as sponsored by the W. C. T. U., the members of the High School P. T. A. accepted the plan with one change. The law as explained in Mrs. Terrell's talk gave the hour when all the children of the city should be off the streets at 7:30 o'clock, the school organization, voting in favor of nine o'clock. The matter will be presented by the High School P. T. A. to all the other school organizations of the city, for their co-operation.

The matter of having the hours of the various parties given by High School pupils, shortened, was brought up and discussed at length at the meeting, and it was decided that the previous hostesses of the affairs have the hours for each party understood, and to arrange their plans to conform with closing each party at ten o'clock.

"The health of the High School student must be considered," said a member of the High School P. T. A. Wednesday, "and late hours will have to go."

Definite plans of hiring an expert librarian to re-index the High School library were discussed at the meeting the arrangement being passed upon. The organization has the assistance of Harper C. Pender, principal of the High School, who suggested at the meeting that the organization ask each home represented in the school to send twenty-five cents to meet the expense of the work of the librarian.

The organization has decided to place the Saturday Evening Post and the Popular Mechanics magazine and a daily paper in the school library for the use of the students.

CHRISTMAS WILL BE INFORMAL AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Dec. 20.—While Mrs. Harding continues to show rapid recovery from her recent serious illness, she has not yet sufficiently regained her strength to participate actively in any elaborate Christmas observance.

For this reason Christmas at the White House this year it was definitely learned today will be strictly informal the president and Mrs. Harding planning to spend the day simply and quietly with a few personal friends. This is in striking contrast to former seasons when the mansion has been the scene of gayest festivities.

Except for Christmas Day the president plans to devote much of the holiday week at his desk in the private study in the White House clearing up work which has piled up on him because of the legislative situation in Congress and the recent turn of European developments.

Strictest secrecy has been thrown around the White House concerning the nature of the presents which the president and Mrs. Harding will exchange. Neither will disclose what they have purchased because each wants to surprise the other.

Mrs. Harding's illness has prevented a Christmas shopping tour. In the past, just before Christmas she always enjoyed walking leisurely along Washington streets to look at the holiday displays in the windows. She always made her own purchases.

THE "PROMISED LAND" FOR THE POOR.

The passing from life of such a man as John Wanamaker ought to be an example that would have a direct bearing on the lives of millions of poor boys in America. It shows that no odds how poor a youth may be, if he will make up his mind to adopt christian principles and work hard to forge ahead and make a good man of himself, the chances are largely favorable that he will succeed.

It may not be so in every country, for we know that in some countries the poor youth are kept down by not being given the opportunity that should be the god-given chance of all. Those who have the wealth in every nation are guilty of a great crime if they do not provide education for the youth. Besides, they are endangering their own welfare, for ignorance is expensive to any community.

This is the reason that the United States have so forged ahead and have become the hope star to the poor in other countries. This is why they flock here, so that their children may have the opportunity of education and the surroundings of civilization. In some countries there seems to be so little civilization that part of the people are as ignorant as brutes. No wonder the poor have no chance in life.

No so here, where the very poorest have equal opportunity with the very richest. In fact the latter are often handicapped by being brought up in idleness and with the excess of indulgences that spoil them. But the poor boy, brought up to depend upon his own exertions, grows strong thereby. So it is, that a thousand poor boys have made men of themselves, to their own honor, to the public welfare and to the honor of their country.

And no poor girl need say: "Ah yes, there are lots of chances for the boys to forge ahead, but not for the girls." Beg pardon, you are mistaken. Get Mary Anton's book, "The Promised Land," and read her story of a poor Russian girl who came to this country at the age of thirteen, sold newspapers, lived for years in the slums of Boston, attended the public schools up to the highest grammar schools, became highly educated and an author, and married Professor Graban, of Columbia University.

THE BOOTLEGGER'S MISFORTUNES.

Misfortune follows in the wake of the bootlegger recently. There is to be no peace and little prosperity for him, it would seem.

The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that because he has been convicted of bootlegging in a state court it is no bar to his trial and conviction in a federal court. The court holds that the constitutional provision forbidding jeopardy twice for the same offense applies only to trial in the same court for the same offense.

This is indeed a hard blow for the bootlegger. He can now be convicted in municipal court, fined or imprisoned. Then he can be tried in the state court, fined and imprisoned. And as if that were not enough he may be tried, fined and imprisoned in the federal court.

And even then his woes are not complete. If convicted of bootlegging the federal court, can then charge him with the manufacture or sale of intoxicants without procuring a license, and fine or imprison him for that offense.

By the time he has gone the rounds, paid all his fines and served his sentences for one bootlegging offense the bootlegger of today will probably be too old or too poverty stricken to again engage in the business.

With all these things staring him in the face, it would seem to be the part of wisdom for the bootlegger to adopt one of two courses—

Quit the business or don't get caught.

BETTER PRISONS.

A judge of the Chicago morals court suggests that all judges visit the jails, prisons and other correctional and penal institutions to which they sentence convicted prisoners. He himself has made it a practice to do this and as a result is urging certain reforms in the handling and housing of prisoners. Says this judge:

"I do not mean that prisoners should be mollicoddled, but I am convinced from personal observation that the majority of prisoners must be improved to a great degree. I believe that it is owed to society that they be bettered because those who are punished for offenses against the people eventually return to take their old places in the affairs of the country. Society has a vital interest in the state of mind as well as in the health in which they come back."

The judge presents one reason for prison reform which society as a whole cannot afford to overlook. Those persons who resent mushy sympathy toward prisoners ought to be able to see that the general public welfare is menaced by foul and unwholesome prisons and that everything which makes for true regeneration of the guilty makes for true safety for the innocent.

A BOY'S BEST JOB.

In almost every high school in the country girl students predominate, particularly in the higher classes. This condition is attributed to the desire of boys to get out of school, go to work and begin to make money.

Probably very few boys realize that they are holding down the most important and lucrative jobs of their lives while in school. It is their job at that time to get an education, and the harder they work at the job the better it will pay them.

The better education they get the larger dividends it will pay all through life. To quit school for a few dollars a week is a sad mistake. Those few dollars will in the end prove the most expensive dollars they ever earn. In later years the lack of education, sacrificed for a few hundred dollars, will cost thousands.

Education is better than putting money on savings deposit. It will pay dividends throughout life and unwise investments can not destroy it. Not all educated men make a brilliant success, but the percentage of successful men runs very high where a thorough education is obtained, and very low where it is not.

Parents and teachers alike might be able to keep boys interested in school until graduation if the matter were put to them in this light—showing them how they are laying up capital that will pay dividends as long as they live.

THE MANIA FOR OWNING THINGS

I could never quite understand all the scramble that there is for ownership of things in the world.

It is well to have a few things that you can call your own—for a little while—but why the racking of body and soul for so many things?

A small home, a few books, a handful of endeared belongings that warm one when it gets chilly, but oh, not a large number of things to worry and fret about.

I fear that none of us really realize how rich we are—with a world of beauty in a billion and more of ways offering separate appeals to the finest appreciation within us.

The Hudson River. I pass its banks nearly every day. I own it! And so does every man, woman and child who is able to appreciate its beauty.

But the rich man, for instance, whose house is filled with expensive paintings and other works of art which his money has enabled him to bring into his temporary possession, isn't the real owner—but every human being who may step within and love them.

My dog owns nothing but the deep affection of his master. But how content he is!

I was entertained in a small home the other day. A mother and her boy lived there.

A delightful simplicity was evident in every part of the place. Restfulness, peace and an individual spirit that was rare perfume. No servants to worry over. No large grounds to keep up, nothing that meant big expenditure of money or excess energy, taste, refinement, a love of fine, quiet things—that's what I got as prevailing notes.

Beauty, even though it costs great sums of money, cannot be entirely owned by anyone. For just the minute that it becomes beautiful to the world.

Love and appreciate much—actually own little—and what a wealth of happiness will be yours.

THE "PROMISED LAND" FOR THE POOR.

The passing from life of such a man as John Wanamaker ought to be an example that would have a direct bearing on the lives of millions of poor boys in America. It shows that no odds how poor a youth may be, if he will make up his mind to adopt christian principles and work hard to forge ahead and make a good man of himself, the chances are largely favorable that he will succeed.

It may not be so in every country, for we know that in some countries the poor youth are kept down by not being given the opportunity that should be the god-given chance of all. Those who have the wealth in every nation are guilty of a great crime if they do not provide education for the youth. Besides they are endangering their own welfare, for ignorance is expensive to any community.

This is the reason that the United States have so forged ahead and have become the hope star to the poor in other countries. This is why they flock here, so that their children may have the opportunity of education and the surroundings of civilization. In some countries there seems to be so little civilization that part of the people are as ignorant as brutes. No wonder the poor have no chance in life.

No so here, where the very poorest have equal opportunity with the very richest. In fact the latter are often handicapped by being brought up in idleness and with the excess of indulgences that spoil them. But the poor boy, brought up to depend upon his own exertions, grows strong thereby. So it is, that a thousand poor boys have made men of themselves, to their own honor, to the public welfare and to the honor of their country.

And no poor girl need say: "Ah yes, there are lots of chances for the boys to forge ahead, but not for the girls." Beg pardon, you are mistaken. Get Mary Anton's book, "The Promised Land," and read her story of a poor Russian girl who came to this country at the age of thirteen, sold newspapers, lived for years in the slums of Boston, attended the public schools up to the highest grammar schools, became highly educated and an author, and married Professor Graban, of Columbia University.

BASKETBALL TEAM LOSES CANDIDATE

The basketball squad of Central High School lost one of its most promising candidates with the death of Wilfred Crow, according to Coach Earl Burner.

This lad, who played guard on the football team last fall, appeared to have had the inside track for the center position on the team, until his untimely death robbed him of his opportunity.

Coach Burner has been putting the rest of the athletes through the paces in the hopes of picking his best material for the quintet that will face Sabina High in the opening game of the season, December 29. Sabina is the team that robbed Xenia Central of the tournament honors at Wilmington last spring and the locals are anxious to defeat the visitors that night as well as cap the opening engagement in the new gymnasium.

During the Christmas holiday, when Coach Burgner will be spending his vacation at his home in Akron, Paul Boxwell, captain of last year's team, will have charge of the practice sessions for the mentor.

Now Does Her Own Housework and Never Felt Better in Her Life Since Taking Ka-di-ok
Mrs. Carrie Lentz, a well known resident of Grove City, in a signed statement expresses her deep appreciation for the way Ka-di-ok helped her. She says: "Before I started taking Ka-di-ok I had neuritis so bad that I could scarcely get out of bed; I could not even put up my hair and most of the time my little girl helped me put it up the best she knew how. The neuritis also affected my ears and caused a stiffness in the back of my neck. I was practically helpless, I tried all kinds of liniments and massaging and rubbing, but did not get any better. I finally started taking Ka-di-ok and have continued using it with the most satisfactory results. I am now able to take care of my housework and do not require any assistance to do up my hair or anything else. As a matter of fact, I never felt better in my life than I do at the present time. I cannot find words of praise strong enough to express my gratitude for the way Ka-di-ok has helped me." Ka-di-ok can be obtained at Sayre and Hemphill Drug Store.

DATE OF SINGING OF CAROLS NAMED AS THURSDAY EVE

Christmas carols will be sung in the streets of Xenia City, Thursday night, instead of Christmas eve, as previously announced, according to officials of the Social Service League, under whose auspices the custom is being revived in the city. In case the weather is inclement Thursday evening, the bands will form Friday night, for the singing.

Forty bands of children have been organized for the occasion, who have been given training in singing the old-time Christmas carols, under local music instruction.

It has been understood by leaders of the bands that residents of the city are planning to "treat" the children as they go through the streets of the city, and at a meeting held Monday, it was decided by the leaders that this was not desired. Any one who desires to donate money to the children during their sojourn through the city streets, are given permission to do so, no other donation to be received.

Residents who are planning to pledge lighted candles in their windows, as a signal for donations are requested to do so about six o'clock, when the bands will start their singing.

COURT NEWS

Asks For Divorce

Every time George I. Talbott's mother-in-law came to visit him and his wife, trouble walked in at the door also.

So Talbott avers in his petition for divorce from Opal C. Talbott filed in Common Pleas Court. They were married February 26, 1921 and separated March 14, 1921.

Both were previously married. Talbott has a five-year-old son and his wife two children. He charges gross neglect of duty in his petition for divorce.

Files Aid In Execution

John T. Harbison Jr., is plaintiff in an aid in execution against Orville W. Brickel and Effie Brickel, C. C. Brickel, C. F. Brickel and C. R. Bales. The plaintiff alleges he obtained a judgment against the defendants and an execution was issued, which has never been satisfied although Orville C. C. and C. F. Brickel all have property which the plaintiff alleges they unjustly refuse to apply towards the satisfaction of the judgment. These defendants have been ordered to appear in Court December 26. F. H. Dean is attorney for the plaintiff.

The case of Clarence McMillan of Cedarville, charged with wife beating which was to have been heard by a jury in Probate Court Tuesday, has been indefinitely continued.

Plaintiff Gets Judgment

The H. W. Jenkins Coal Company has been allowed a judgment of $114.75 in Common Pleas Court against Arthur Jenks.

Case Is Dismissed

The case of B. B. Stackhouse against S. H. Landaker and others, has been dismissed from Common Pleas Court without record.

Names Returned to Wheel

Names drawn from the jury wheel for a special venire last week, that eventually were not used, have been ordered returned to the jury wheel.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HEATING PLANT IS OUT; HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, BENEFIT

Students in the Central School building, including Central High School and grade pupils, will be dismissed for the Christmas holidays at the close of the Wednesday afternoon session.

The early dismissal is necessitated by a breakdown of the heating plant, which will require repairs that will take some time. Pupils in other schools will not be dismissed for the holidays until Friday evening, according to Superintendent of Schools C. A. Waltz, and will not resume their studies after the holidays until January 2, the day after New Years.

Students in the Central building will have to resume school after the vacation on January 1, New Years Day, in order to make up work lost through the early dismissal this week.

XENIA FIVE DOWNS CEDARVILLE COLLEGE

Cedarville College basketball team and the Xenia Boring-Yanks battled tooth and nail in one of the best games of the present season at the rink Tuesday night, the Collegians losing to the independent aggregation in the final analysis, by one point. The score was 22 to 21.

The win was the second for the locals, who stepped off to a narrow lead in the initial period, and were leading at the half 13 to 8. The Yanks started to increase their lead in the second session, but Cedarville aroused and baskets by Currie and Collins brought the visitors on even terms with the locals. A long shot by Derrick however, spelled defeat for the Collegians, giving the Boring-Yanks their slender advantage.

The game was rough and tumble all the way through nine personal fouls being called on Xenia while three were charged against the Cedarville five, while spectators say at least a dozen more slipped by, Collins and Currie starred for the Cedarville gang and Stevens, Muterspaw and Derrick played brilliantly for Xenia. Referee Rachford was forced to retire when he was struck by a ball thrown by Owens during the game. The lineup and summary:

Xenia 22: L. F. Collins 21, Barnes 1, L. F. Collins 3, Stephens 3, R. F. Currie (c) 1, Toohy 1, C. G. Taylor 1, Muterspaw 1, L. G. Bowyer 1, Owens 1, R. G. Peter 1.

Substitutions: Xenia—Derrick for Muterspaw, Muterspaw for Stephens, F. Leahy for Owens; Cedarville—Wickham for Taylor, Davis for Peters, Field Goals: Stephens 3, Barnes 1, Toohy 2, Derrick 1, Muterspaw 2, Currie 2, Collins 3, Taylor 1, Foul Goals Muterspaw 4 out of 5, Collins 9 out of 14. Referee: L. Rachford and Collins. Scorer—Wones.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

Ohio State Federation club women, will club women be able to meet these new obligations. I believe that Ohio club women can do a great deal to further this education."

Miss Bishop asks that classes be organized, a leader and a secretary chosen, subjects assigned to each woman and that meetings conducted every two weeks, beginning Jan. 15 and continuing up to March 15.

In this connection, the citizenship chairman offers this as an outline of study:

First meeting: Local civic problems public school questions, municipal council proceedings, public service problems, finances, police powers and administration of law enforcement.

Second meeting: State constitution, legislative, executive and judicial departments, power and method of state taxation and state commissioners.

Third meeting: Federal constitution legislative, executive and judicial branches, and functions and powers of cabinet officers.

Fourth meeting: Pending state and federal legislation, party, responsibilities in governmental affairs and political standards.

Springfield club women now have a club house. It is the old home of Captain and Mrs. E. L. Buckwalter at No. 825 East High street. Mrs. Buckwalter was president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs from 1904 to 1907.

Miss Anna B. Johnson, Springfield, past president of the Ohio Federation, was largely instrumental in negotiating the purchase of the Buckwalter home, and is general chairman of the newly formed club-house company. It is planned to have an auditorium with a seating capacity of 1,000.

"Holding the Norwood Federation of women's clubs as something sacred and worthy of unfailing loyalty, I will sustain the federation in its good work and guard its reputation at all times."

DIDN'T WASTE MONEY ON FOOD

"The recent campaign against wastefulness in eating did not affect me much as I haven't been able to eat anything but toast and tea for the past five years. Even that would create gas and cause me distress. My weight was down to eighty-four pounds and my complexion muddy. I had frequent pains in the region of my appendix. I am glad I did not listen to an operation, as Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has made a new woman of me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

Ohio State Federation club women face the new year with smiling faces. The closing year has been marked by brilliant work on the part of clubs in every department throughout the state. The future outlook is bright in promise, and officials of the state organization, together with the district officers and department heads, are hopefully sanguine that 1923 will eclipse in both volume and quality of service.

Ohio club women enter the threshold of a new year filled with enthusiasm and the spirit of the yuletide season which, it may be expected, will dominate their club activities during the coming twelve months.

Four truck loads of presents for the poor of Marion will be distributed Christmas Eve by the various charitable organizations, to which the Delphian Club turned over the "receipts" of four picture shows. The Orphium and Marion theaters were donated to the club women for the purpose. To gain admittance children brought two articles—potatoes, apples, onions, etc. It was a big success, and the distribution, it is expected, will be an even greater success. More than 2,500 school children attended.

A citizenship training program is presented by Mrs. Alvord L. Bishop, Cleveland, chairman of the division of the Ohio State Federation of Women's Clubs. "Citizenship brings to women many new duties and responsibilities," Mrs. Bishop writes. "Only through active interest and intelligent understanding and a true knowledge of the principles of good government local, state and na-

HORRORS ALLEGED IN MINE WAR TRIAL IN ILLINOIS CITY

Marion, Ill., Dec. 20.—Horror was piled upon horror before the jury today in the trial of the five men indicted for the murder of Howard Hoffman during the Herrin mine riot of June 22. It culminated when Patrick Joseph O'Rourke, a mine guard, the man who came back from the gates of death left bound to five other victims near the Herrin Cemetery, removed his collar and tie, unbuttoned his shirt and bared his neck, showing the scar of a knife wound.

Slowly, he

CHRISTMAS ONLY ANOTHER DAY TO LIFERS IN JAIL

State Penitentiary, Joliet, Ill., Dec. 20.—Christmas to a "lifer" behind prison walls—empty, black, a day saddened by memories of what was and dreams of what might have been.

True there's a special dinner, a movie perhaps, but what's that? Friends, relatives, loved ones, make Christmas. Without them the day is meaningless.

So said two convicted murderers here today. They're in for "life." To them Christmas, like any other day, means only iron bars, black stone walls, wasted lives.

There's prisoner No. 8383. He's 24, a farmer boy. Never before has he eaten Christmas dinner away from his mother's table.

Last August, crazed with bad liquor, he murdered his bride of four months. Three weeks ago he was brought here. He changed his name for a number.

His face is frank, open boyish. His hands are nervous, twitching—because the owner is just beginning to realize the enormity of the crime they have committed.

"I never was in trouble before," he said, thinking back over many cheerful Christmas days spent at his home near Morris, Ill., and of four happy months with his young wife, "the only girl I ever went with."

"I was raised just as well as any other boy in the country," he said. "I had a good education, I never drank before. Now everything is swept away. When I think of it I almost go crazy."

"Christmas?" queried another "lifer" convicted in 1913 of murdering an actress in a Chicago hotel. "Well, it's just about like any other day."

His voice was weak, submissive. He laughed a hollow, meaningless laugh. Six years in prison have made him that way.

Three possessions he has in the world. His life, which is useless to him unless he can gain his freedom, a small picture, reproduction of a hotel cash book, with which he once had a faint hope he might prove he was innocent of the crime of which he was declared guilty, and $170 in money, not enough to engage a good lawyer to handle the case.

Several years ago this prisoner, then a trusty, walked away from the prison farm. His sole idea was to earn enough money to prove his innocence. He was missing three years. In Seattle he made good. But one day he was recognized by a detective, "picked up" and brought back to Joliet. He had $170 saved from a salary of $22.50 a week.

All this he confided on condition neither his name nor his number would be disclosed.

"I don't want to beg for sympathy," he said. "If I only had a friend outside who would do something for me. But there is no one. I am getting old. Freedom is a wonderful thing, but I guess it's not for me."

Tears welled into his eyes. He wiped them away with the back of his hand.

Then he walked away to his cell, there to contemplate another black Christmas day, only another day of memories and of dreams that never come true.

CAR MEN GET INCREASE

Louisville, Dec. 20.—The Louisville Railway Co., operating street railway lines in this city, today announced pay increase for approximately 900 platform men. The increases range from 1 cent an hour for the first three months of 1923 to 10 cents an hour after service of two years.

PUMPKIN PIE FOR CHRISTMAS.

Any woman, though she be the most inexperienced housekeeper, can bake a good pumpkin pie for her Christmas dinner by following these directions:

Buy a small pumpkin—one that is a little smaller than a football. A pumpkin of this size will weigh about two pounds and cost around 25 cents. It should make two pies.

Cut your two pound pumpkin in half, then in quarters. Scoop out the seeds and membranes (these, of course, are not used), then pare off the yellow outside rind. Cut the pumpkin quarters into small pieces, cover them with boiling water, and let them simmer till very tender—about two hours. Drain off the water and mash the pumpkin as you would mash potatoes. Then measure it by cupfuls. There should be two and one-half cups of the pulp.

Put the two and one-half cups of mashed pumpkin into a large bowl and mix into it two eggs, two table-spoons of flour, four table-spoons of molasses, one cup of granulated sugar, two cups of sweet milk and two thirds of a teaspoon of ground ginger. Your pie-filling is now ready.

The next step is to make two under crusts, as follows: Put into a mixing bowl one and one-half cups of flour and work into this, with the fingers, one-half cup of lard. Add to it one level teaspoon of salt and stir in two-thirds of a cup of cold water. This makes a stiff paste, which must now be turned out onto a floured bread board and rolled to about one-fourth inch in thickness. Put one-half cup of butter over this sheet of pastry, breaking the butter into small pieces with the fingers (the butter pieces will be very close together on the dough); sift one-half cup of flour over the buttered dough, then fold the dough in from both ends until it makes a long roll. Double this roll in the middle so as to form a square of the dough. Then with a sharp knife, cut the square in half. One half of it makes a single under crust, when rolled as nearly circular as possible and large enough to cover one pie pan generously.

When you have lined two pans with your dough, fill them with the prepared pumpkin filling. Sprinkle the top of both pies with a little ground cinnamon.

The pies are now ready to bake. Be sure you have as hot an oven as you can possibly get. If you use an oven thermometer, do not put the pies into the oven till the thermometer registers 550 Fahrenheit. Watch the clock, and after the pies have been in this hot oven for five or ten minutes, decrease the oven heat so that it is a "medium" oven.

Pumpkin pies, like all other pies that contain egg, must go into a very hot oven at the start (to set the crust), but after a few moments they require only a moderately hot oven in order that the filling does not boil.

An egg filling becomes watery if allowed to simmer in the pie. In all the pie should bake 40 to 50 minutes.

Chapters From A Woman's Life

BY JANE PHELPS

CHAPTER 57

When the postman brought a letter from Mrs. Page I was alone. I held it, turned it over and over, dreading to open it. Finally I got up my courage and began to read.

She told of sending her things, of her hope they would look well in their new environment, of her efforts to wind up her business so she could get back to us, and how she missed little Jack. Then she said:

"I have thought over your conversation with me carefully, Doreen. I have tried to put myself in your place, to imagine how I would feel under the same circumstances. I had thought when Walter asked me to live with you that you and I could work amicably together, like mother and daughter.

"I see I was wrong. I am Walter's mother, not yours. There is the trouble, if trouble I may call it. I think you are right. I shall pay the difference in the rent between the two places, shall pay you personally for my board, and that of a maid. I never have been without one save during my visit to you, when I felt she would crowd you I did not bring her.

"I trust I may never be in the way, that I may have little Jack as before. I am getting old, my little grandson is, primarily, the reason I wish to be near you—with you. You are young, have a right to certain freedom and pleasure; but to have it, to be with Walter as my son with his nature, needs a wife with him, the baby and less. My being there will obviate that and leave you free to be with Walter.

"I think this is all. I shall be with you in about two weeks, and I hope you will feel you can welcome me."

I cried a little when I finished the letter. She had agreed to my plan in every way, had thought of me, my pleasure, my duty to Walter. I also felt a bit ashamed of myself. She had so gracefully backed down from her original intention. I sat right down and answered her letter, wrote almost as if she were my own mother. I told her how happy I felt we would be, that I had missed her. After it was posted I felt happier than in a long time.

I knew Mrs. Page realized Walter's gay inconsequential nature, that she felt I should be with him. She had shown this often while with us. She trusted me to be a balance wheel for him, to act as a curb if necessary. To some this might not have been flattering, but knowing her intense love for Walter, her pride in him, it did not hurt me to know she also realized his weaknesses. I think I liked her better for it, and her faith in my influence on him.

I let Walter read the letter. Said he:

"Just like the Mater. She knows how to back down gracefully."

I told him I had replied at once and he was pleased. He grumbled a bit would have a right to certain freedom because of what she had said about him "his nature," his need of me, but I could see he was pleased with all else.

"We'll have that trip this winter, sure as shooting, Doreen!" he declared. "It will do us both good to get away and Jackie boy will be alright with the Mater."

"Yes, and she can have her turn running the house while we are gone!" I answered happily.

The two weeks up Mrs. Page came. We were all moved into the new apartment, nearly settled, her rooms entirely so. She brought a middle-aged maid, Mary and of course Fido I was really glad to see her and when she kissed me she seemed to show more feeling than she has ever shown before. She was delighted with her rooms.

"I know I could safely leave this arrangement to Walter," she said as she inspected them, Jack in her arms.

She was also delighted with the apartment. It had been her choice, and her old imperious self showed when she reminded me of the fact. She ordered Jennie and her own maid in the same way, but Jennie took no offense.

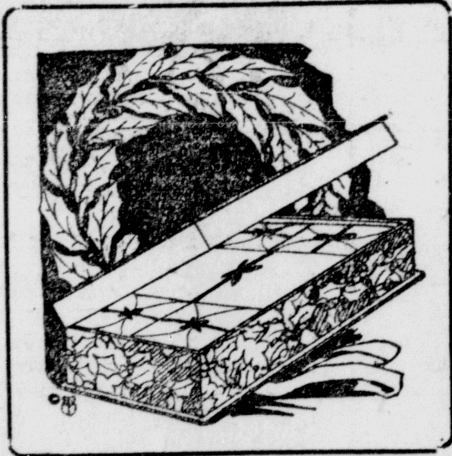

She had been informed just how matters stood, and I anticipated no trouble from her.

"It's glad I am she's brought a nurse for this Fido," Jennie said when I followed her into the dining room.

"He a needin' one, I'm thinkin'."

"Fido won't bother you at all Jennie," I replied.

"Praise be!" she replied. "It's the horrid little thing he is."

CHRISTMAS ONLY ANOTHER DAY TO LIFERS IN JAIL

State Penitentiary, Joliet, Ill., Dec. 20.—Christmas to a "lifer" behind prison walls—empty black, a day saddened by memories of what was and dreams of what might have been.

Efficient Housekeeping

PUMPKIN PIE FOR CHRISTMAS.

Any woman, though she be the most inexperienced housekeeper, can bake a good pumpkin pie for her Christmas dinner by following these directions:

Buy a small pumpkin—one that is a little smaller than a football. A pumpkin of this size will weigh about two pounds and cost around 25 cents. It should make two pies.

Cut your two pound pumpkin in half, then in quarters. Scoop out the seeds and membranes (these, of course, are not used), then pare off the yellow outside rind. Cut the pumpkin quarters into small pieces, cover them with boiling water, and let them simmer till very tender—about two hours. Drain off the water and mash the pumpkin as you would mash potatoes. Then measure it by cupfuls. There should be two and one-half cups of the pulp.

Put the two and one-half cups of mashed pumpkin into a large bowl and mix into it two eggs, two tablespoons of flour, four tablespoons of molasses, one cup of granulated sugar two cups of sweet milk and two thirds of a teaspoon of ground ginger. Your piefilling is now ready.

The next step is to make two under crusts, as follows: Put into a mixing bowl one and one-half cups of flour and work into this, with the fingers, one-half cup of lard. Add to it one level teaspoon of salt and stir in two-thirds of a cup of cold water. This makes a stiff paste, which must now be turned out onto a floured bread board and rolled to about one-fourth inch in thickness. Put one-half cup of butter over this sheet of pastry, breaking the butter into small pieces with the fingers (the butter pieces will be very close together on the dough); sift one-half cup of flour over the buttered dough, then fold the dough in from both ends until it makes a long roll. Double this roll, in the middle so as to form a square of the dough. Then with a sharp knife, cut the square in half. One half of it makes a single under crust, when rolled as nearly circular as possible and large enough to cover one pie pan generously.

When you have lined two pans with your dough, fill them with the prepared pumpkin filling. Sprinkle the top of both pies with a little ground cinnamon.

The pies are now ready to bake. Be sure you have as hot an oven as you can possibly get. If you use an oven thermometer, do not put the pies into the oven till the thermometer registers 550 Fahrenheit. Watch the clock, and after the pies have been in this hot oven for five or ten minutes, decrease the oven heat so that it is a "medium" oven.

Pumpkin pies, like all other pies that contain egg, must go into a very hot oven at the start (to set the crust), but after a few moments they require only a moderately hot oven in order that the filling does not boil.

An egg filling becomes watery if allowed to simmer in the pie. In all the pie should bake 40 to 50 minutes.

CHAPTER 57

When the postman brought a letter from Mrs. Page I was alone. I held it, turned it over and over, dreading to open it. Finally I got up my courage and began to read.

She told of sending her things, of her hope they would look well in their new environment, of her efforts to wind up her business so she could get back to us, and how she missed little Jack. Then she said:

"I have thought over your conversation with me carefully, Doreen. I have tried to put myself in your place, to imagine how I would feel under the same circumstances. I had thought when Walter asked me to live with you that you and I could work amicably together, like mother and daughter."

"I see I was wrong. I am Walter's mother, not yours. There is the trouble. If trouble I may call it. I think you are right. I shall pay the difference in the rent between the two places, shall pay you personally for my board, and that of a maid. I never have been without one save during my visit to you, when I felt she would crowd you I did not bring her."

"I trust I may never be in the way, that I may have little Jack as before. I am getting old, my little grandson is, primarily, the reason I wish to be near you—with you. You are young, have a right to certain freedom and pleasure; but to have it, to be with Walter as my son with his nature, needs a wife with him, the baby and less. My being there will obviate

that and leave you free to be with Walter."

"I think this is all. I shall be with you in about two weeks, and I hope you will feel you can welcome me."

I cried a little when I finished the letter. She had agreed to my plan in every way, had thought of me, my pleasure, my duty to Walter. I also felt a bit ashamed of myself. She had so gracefully backed down from her original intention. I sat right down and answered her letter, wrote almost as if she were my own mother. I told her how happy I felt we would be, that I had missed her. After it was posted I felt happier than in a long time.

I knew Mrs. Page realized Walter's gay inconsequential nature, that she felt I should be with him. She had shown this often while with us. She trusted me to be a balance wheel for him, to act as a curb if necessary. To some this might not have been flattering, but knowing her intense love for Walter, her pride in him, it did not hurt me to know she also realized his weaknesses. I think I liked her the better for it, and her faith in my influence on him.

I let Walter read the letter. Said he: "Just like the Mater. She knows how to back down gracefully."

I told him I had replied at once and he was pleased. He grumbled a bit would have a right to certain freedom because of what she had said about him "his nature," his need of me, but I could see he was pleased with all else.

"We'll have that trip this winter, sure as shooting, Doreen!" he declared. "It will do us both good to get away and Jackie boy will be alright with the Mater."

"Yes, and she can have her turn running the house while we are gone" I answered happily.

The two weeks up Mrs. Page came. We were all moved into the new apartment, nearly settled, her rooms entirely so. She brought a middle aged maid, Mary and of course Flido I was really glad to see her and when she kissed me she seemed to show more feeling than she has ever shown before. She was delighted with her rooms.

"I know I could safely leave this arrangement to Walter," she said as she inspected them, Jack in her arms.

She was also delighted with the apartment. It had been her choice, and her old imperious self showed when she reminded me of the fact. She ordered Jennie and her own maid in the same way, but Jennie took no offense.

She had been informed just how matters stood, and I anticipated no trouble from her.

"It's glad I am she's brought a nurse for this Flido,55 Jennie said when I followed her into the dining room.

"He a needin' one, I'm thinkin'." "Flido won't bother you at all Jennie," I replied.

"Praise be!" she replied. "It's the horrid little thing he is."
